Peggy Sage NOTES

FASHION TURNS ITS BACK...and rustles up a gorgeous derriere effect. The modern girl is casual by day -- glamorous after dark. That new hair-do, tucked up clear around the head, over a ribbon tying in front, will come down in a halo for big evenings. "Nail-dos" follow "hair-dos" glamorous by night, the whole nail covered with Fez polish — or Heartbreak, or any one of Peggy Sage's 21 polishes. The nails are long because the modern girl has found that with Peggy Sage Polish there are no breaking, splitting nails.

CARPENTER'S APPEAL DISMISSED

An appeal by Thomas McGrath, carpenter, Carriastcher, Nenagh, from a judgment of the Circuit Court, dismissing, with costs, his application for compensation by Timothy Gleeson, creamery manager, Bawnakey, Nenagh, for injuries received when repairing a house for Mr. Gleeson, on September 14 last, was dismissed.

It appeared that Mr. Gleeson had made arrangements with Mr. McGrath to carry out the repairs, and that while Mr. McGrath was doing the repairs a wall of the house fell on him, breaking his left leg and injuring his left shoulder.

Mr. Cecil Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Sean MacBride (instructed by Mr. Patrick McGrath) appeared for Thomas McGrath; and Mr. Brereton Barry, K.C., and Mr. C. B. McKenna (instructed by Mr. J. J. Nash) for Timothy Gleeson).

The Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Murnaghan and Mr. Justice Meredith were of opinion that there was sufficient evidence from which the Circuit Judge could reach the conclusion at which he had arrived, and that the appeal should be dismissed.

Mr. Justice Geoghegan was of opinion that there was sufficient evidence before the Circuit Judge to raise a presumption to establish the relationship of master and servant, and that the appeal should be allowed.

The appeal accordingly was dismissed, with costs.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT

SOLICITOR APPOINTED RECEIVER

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Mr. Charles B. W. Boyle, solicitor, 68 Middle Abbey street, Dublin, was appointed Receiver, without security, to receive from Hospitals' Trust, Ltd., £20 6s., together with costs, out of the commission, profits, salary, bonus, or other profits to which Patrick J. Clarke, 26 Hogarth street, Duncairn Gardens, Belfast, sweep agent, was now, or might be, entitled to receive for or in respect of the sale of sweepstake tickets for or on behalf of Hospitals' Trust, Ltd.

Judgment had been already obtained for £80 6s. in favour of John F. Clarke, "Sunnyside," Iveragh road, Whitehall, Dublin, against the defendant, Patrick J. Clarke, being money lent by plaintiff to defendant, and for money paid to and for defendant at his request.

Miss Averil Deverall (instructed by Mr. C. B. W. Boyle) appeared for John F. Clarke, who made the application.

There was no appearance on behalf of the defendant.

MALICIOUS INJURY AWARDS

Awards of compensation amounting to £903 19s. 1d. were made in malicious injury applications. With one exception, all the claims were made in respect of damage to plate-glass windows.

HUNGER STRIKER'S TRIAL

SPECIAL COURT ADJOURNMENT

MAN SENTENCED TO PRISON TERM

WHEN the case of Thomas Grogan, Mornington road, Drogheda, was mentioned, Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., who, with Mr. G. D. Murnaghan (instructed by Mr. D. O'Donovan, Chief State Solicitor's Office), appeared for the State, said that Grogan was previously before the Court on March 8th charged, with three other men, with having taken part in the raid on the Magazine Fort. The Court dealt with the three others and adjourned the case against Grogan as, by reason of his physical condition, he was unable to take his trial.

By reason of the accused man's continued refusal to take food he was still unable to stand his trial, and Mr. McCarthy again applied for an adjournment.

The case was adjourned to May 9th.

REFUSED TO ANSWER

Daniel Jordan, 66 Oliver Bond House, Bridgefoot street, Dublin, was sentenced to four months' imprisonment for refusing to answer questions concerning his movements on the night of the Magazine Fort raid.

A detective officer testified to questioning Jordan in Irish as he understood that Jordan had previously answered in Irish.

After Jordan was found guilty evidence was given that when he appeared before the District Court on the charge he was found guilty of contempt and sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

BOUND OVER

James Swann, Skrine, Co. Meath, pleaded guilty to charges of unlawful assembly and conspiracy arising out of incidents in the farmers' strike in November last. Sentence was deferred and the defendant was bound to the peace for two years in his own bail of £100 and one surety of £100.

Mr. H. Lemass appeared for Swann.

Mr. G. D. Murnaghan (instructed by Mr. D. O'Donovan, Chief State Solicitor's Office) appeared for the State in the cases against Jordan and Swann.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

FOUR MEN STABBED IN RESTAURANT

DUBLIN MAN PLEADS GUILTY

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

Richard Scott, (23), Clonliffe avenue, labourer, pleaded guilty to charges of stabbing four persons at a St. John Ambulance Brigade smoking concert in the Red Bank Restaurant on February 14th.

He was put back for sentence until Friday.

He also admitted that he had assaulted Guard Martin McManus.

Inspector P. J. Birmingham, giving evidence of character, described Scott as a "dangerous man."

The men whom Scott was accused of stabbing were:—Peter Farrell, Lower Gardiner street; John Malone, East Wall; Francis Hunt, Queen's terrace, Pearse street, and John Christopher Harmon, Pearse street.

Mr. L. Trant McCarthy, solicitor, appeared for the defendant.

£135 DAMAGES FOR FARMER'S WIFE

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

Patrick Ryan, farmer, and his wife, Mrs. Nellie Ryan, of Lattin East, Co. Tipperary, claimed damages against John Hennessy, merchant, Emly, in respect of injuries caused to Mrs. Ryan when a motor lorry owned by Mr. Hennessy came in collision with a jennet and cart owned by Mr. Ryan, and driven by Mrs. Ryan, who was thrown on to the road way.

The defence was a denial of negligence and a plea of contributory negligence on the part of Mrs. Ryan.

Mr. Brereton Barry, K.C., Mr. P. J. McEnery, K.C., and Mr. J. A. D'Arcy (instructed by Messrs. J. F. D'Arcy and Co.) appeared for Mr. and Mrs. Ryan; and Mr. M. J. Connolly, K.C., and Mr. R. O'Hanrahan (instructed by Messrs. N. F. Maher and Co.) for Mr. Hennessy.

The jury assessed damages at £135 in favour of Mrs. Ryan and £40 in favour of Mr. Ryan, whose claim was for expenses and loss arising out of the accident.

Judgment was given accordingly.

JURY DISAGREES

(BEFORE THE PRESIDENT OF THE HIGH COURT AND A JURY.)

The jury disagreed in the case in which Nicholas English, medical student, East Beach, Cobh, Co. Cork, claimed damages against the Great Southern Railways Co. for injuries suffered at Lotamore, Glanmire, Co. Cork, on February 15th, 1939, when a motor lorry owned by the defendants and a motor car driven by Mr. English collided.

The defence was a denial of negligence and a plea of contributory negligence.

Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., Mr. Cecil Lavery, K.C.; Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. Vaughan Buckley (instructed by Messrs. W. T. O'Connor, Harvey and Co.) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald, K.C., Mr. R. Brereton Barry, K.C., and Mr. Charles Casey (instructed by Messrs. W. G. Bradley and Sons) for the defendants.

WALL STREET ON DOWNGRADE

SCANDINAVIAN BONDS SLUMP

HEAVY SELLING FROM AMSTERDAM

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

The voting in Nebraska and Illinois to-day was obscured by the foreign news, while Scandinavian dollar bonds broke anything from 10 to 40 points in response to the blitzkrieg. However, Wall Street does not expect any marked expansion in foreign selling, and the major trend is believed to be still upwards.

Of the 911 stocks traded in the turnover of 1,140,000 shares 331 advanced and 526 declined.

Foreign dollar bonds were shaken by the European news, with bids for Scandinavian issues lowered sharply.

Towards the close of the morning session the market sharply faced about, as the Steels surrendered their earlier gains, and were driven down with the remainder, registering net losses up to a point. The Motors, Rubbers, Rails and Utilities were all prominent in the decline. Paper issues were favourably influenced by the belief that Scandinavian pulp exports might be cut off.

The market continued to fluctuate nervously, with considerable selling reported from Amsterdam, and, while above the day's low levels, a long list finished fractions to a point lower. Paper issues, exceptionally, recorded gains ranging to 3 points.

The close was easy.

The Chairman of the Foreign Exchange Committee announced, after consultation with the Treasury Department and the New York Federal Reserve Bank, that it had been decided to suspend trading in Danish and Norwegian currencies.

Sterling exchange opened 11¼ points lower at $3.44 (offered), had advanced to $3.47⅛ during the morning. That rate later reached $3.48⅛, but finally reacted, and closed 9⅜ points down at $3.46⅛.

Silver was unchanged at 34¾ cents.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Ballyporeen—Symbol and Fact : The National Park at Muckross
"Inter-departmental" Complications : "E 7"
An Ice-rink for Dublin

Ice-Skating in Dublin

Plans, I understand, are proceeding apace at last for the construction of an elaborate ice-skating rink in Dublin, and big financial support has been extended to the project. The undertaking's success, I am certain, will be a foregone conclusion.

According to my information, the site will be on the South side of the city.

The certainty that ice-skating will be a popular pastime in Dublin was proved during the winter months, when hundreds of people, young and old, availed themselves of the frozen lakes, ponds, rivers and canals. It will be pleasant to enjoy the sport all the year round.

Board of Works "Economies"

I had a word or two to say recently in regard to premises and enterprises for which the Board of Works is responsible, and I recall several projects and long-deferred promises.

For more than ten years architects and engineers have been engaged on the designs of new premises for the central sorting office beside Westland Row Station and for new premises to supersede the quite inadequate office in College Green.

Yet, apart from patchwork at Pearse street and announcements that the Board has acquired alternative central building sites in St. Andrew street and Exchequer street (where the commodious premises vacated by the Hospitals' Trust are occupied by military guards in charge of piles of sandbags), there are yet no signs of action.

By way of explaining such procrastination and indecision, a friend points to the fact that two Departments—in this connection the Board of Works and the Department of Posts and Telegraphs—usually insist on getting in each other's way. He is willing to lay heavy odds that more than a ton of drawings and specifications and memoranda of the Pearse street and College Green projects are to be found somewhere among Government archives.

Now that the building trade is threatened by paralysis, it should surely be possible for Mr. P. J. Little and Mr. Hugo Flinn to put their heads together and give us something more concrete than vague promises!

"E 7"

A mysterious "E 7" is in the news in England just now. A newly-launched warship? A double-dealing Secret Service agent? Nothing of the kind. "E7" makes its appearance in tobacconists' windows—an untried brand of cigarettes.

It seems that the Government is not entirely satisfied with the habits of English smokers, but is rather at a loss what to do about it all. Rationing is hardly feasible; in any case, it is the quality, rather than the quantity used, that is causing concern.

The fact is that Virginian cigarettes have long enjoyed pre-eminent popularity, while national interest demands that the Turkish variety should be more widely used. As a compromise, experiments are being made with mixtures of the two brands, and "E7" is one of these.

Up to the present most of those who have tried the mixture have declared themselves well satisfied; whether the change of heart will be permanent remains to be seen. If it is, I am afraid that it will not be from patriotic motives!

Peace and Goodwill

One of the objects of the sponsors of the "peace and good-will week" which is to be held in Killarney in August next is to accelerate the development of the town as a holiday centre.

Killarney has not changed as rapidly as its importance would have justified during the boom in "tourism" in recent years; but there is a section of the citizens who are determined that expansion will take place in the future.

I have little information about the details of the reformers' plans, but from my own experience I would say that one thing that shrieks to the heavens for action is the failure of the Board of Works to make use of the neglected mansion in the National Park.

That mansion might be turned into a source of profit for the nation as a hostel catering for people who could not ordinarily afford to use the hotels; it might be a museum, a summer sports centre, or a residence for the President.

But the donor's intention was to make it available "for the youth of Ireland," and I see only one answer to that!

Ballyporeen

The recent references to Ballyporeen in the correspondence columns have lent a somewhat apocryphal character to the place, but I can assure my readers it really exists in that rich and splendid plain which stretches luxuriantly between the Knockmealdown and Galtee Mountains.

To be exact, it is in Tipperary, but within a stone's throw of County Cork and seven miles east of Mitchelstown, near the famous caves.

Ballyporeen is a rather uninteresting village of one long street, perhaps the widest in the twenty-six counties, with a long-since disused church at the far end, which was locally famous in my youth as "the church without the steeple."

There are no "big" houses near the village, which may partly account for the independent character of its inhabitants, whose capacity for jovial occasions was celebrated in a song, the words of which I have forgotten, called the "Wedding of Ballyporeen."

To-day's Wedding

A correspondent writes:—

I am delighted to hear that my old friend John Ryan will enter to-day into the state of matrimony. His wife-to-be is that very charming girl, Sybil Drummond, of Rathaldron Castle, near Navan.

John Ryan, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ryan, of Stillorgan, has already made a name for himself in the world of commerce. For recreation, he confesses himself an ardent follower of the Scarteen "Black and Tans." He is also occasionally to be seen on or off the fairways of golf courses, striving in vain to beat his best man, Tom Roche, of Enniscorthy, recently captain of the Trinity Rugby side.

I hear that they propose to spend their honeymoon in the United States. The prospect of getting away for a while from this nervy Europe is certainly an attractive one, but the journey itself is not calculated to appeal to any but the most hardened travellers!

THE LATE MRS. EMILY ELIZABETH POER

MEMORIAL TABLET

A tablet has been placed in Maynooth Church in memory of Mrs. Emily Elisabeth Poer, who was greatly loved by the parishioners and by all in the neighbourhood. She had a most attractive personality, and her kindness to many will be long remembered. The tablet bears the inscription:—"In loving memory of Emily Elisabeth, wife of the Rev. Canon Poer, M.A., Rector of this Parish. Died 13th July, 1939. For ever with the Lord."

COMING MARRIAGE

Miss H. Greening Davey, daughter of Mr. Victor Davey, the Royal Yugoslavian Consul at Dublin, and Mrs. Davey, of Verney House, Kilternan, County Dublin, will be married at Wendover, Bucks., at the end of this month to Mr. Cecil Victor Murphy, an educational officer in the Royal Air Force, and a member of a well-known County Wicklow family.

Miss Davey was educated at Penrhos College, Colwyn Bay, and at Dublin University, afterwards studying art under Miss Lillian Davidson and music under the late Commendatore Esposito at the Royal Irish Academy of Music. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. John Curtin, a former Dublin City Treasurer.

Her fiancé, Mr. Murphy, is a graduate in Engineering of the National University of Ireland, and was very popular here before he took up his London appointment.

Miss Davey has chosen blue for her bridal scheme. She will wear a two-piece suit of turquoise and a turquoise toque with a red plume. She will be attended by a school friend as bridesmaid. Mr. Murphy will be supported by Mr. Louis Collins, B.Sc., B.E., of Johnstown House, Cabinteely, a college friend.

WEDDINGS

MR R. L. THOMPSON AND MISS M. E. TREANOR

The wedding took place on March 25th last, at Rosoren Church, of Mr. R. Lance Thompson, only son of Mr. William M. Thompson and the late Mrs. Thompson, Inglewood, Killester, and Miss Margaret Elizabeth Treanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Treanor, The Square, Rosoren.

THE BRIDEGROOM AND BRIDE

The Service was conducted by the Very Rev. the Dean of Tuam, assisted by the Rev. H. A. Stanistreet, M.A., and the Rev. R. Lee-Cole, M.A., B.D.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a period gown of parchment satin and a halo head-dress of gold and parchment. She carried a bouquet of dark red carnations and lily-of-the valley.

Mr. Keith B. Bradshaw acted as best man.

The honeymoon is being spent in Kerry.

MR. TIMOTHY HAYES AND MISS W. McCARTHY

At the Church of the Assumption, Howth, on Tuesday last, the wedding took place of Mr. Timothy Hayes, Kilvarig, Timolleague, and Miss Winifred McCarthy, Clonakilty, Co. Cork.

The ceremony, with Nuptial Mass, was performed by the Rev. Father Baker, C.C., Howth.

The bride was given away by Eleanor, Lady Yarrow, who wore a blue dress with a pale grey hat, and carried a bunch of blue flowers.

The bride's dress was a two-piece lavender blue, with a bandeau to match, and on her dress was a spray of white heather and myrtle.

The bridesmaid, Miss Norah Hayes (sister of the bridegroom) wore a pink dress, with a bandeau to match.

Mr. Cornelius McCarthy (brother of the bride) acted as best man.

The bride and bridegroom went into their new home, The Lodge, Journey's End, Baily, where they held a small private party, at which Lady Yarrow was present.

INSURANCE RESTRICTIONS

BRITISH COMPANIES' ALTERNATIVES

STAFF REDUCTIONS

(By an "Irish Times" Representative.)

LONG deferred provisions of the Insurance Act of 1936, which present unwelcome alternatives to the majority of companies now operating in Eire, will come into force during the next few weeks. Under an Order made by the Minister for Industry and Commerce it will become illegal for any company to transact both life and fire business after the 1st of next July. At least twenty corporations, including many whose names are most familiar to insurers, will be compelled to close down either their life or their fire and accident organisations. In either event the choice to be made will involve the disemployment of some hundreds of the members of the clerical and outdoor staffs and the termination of some thousands of agencies throughout the country.

Questions of lively concern to staffs and agents and insurers are concerned with decisions which their companies may reach as to the branches of activities they may elect to abandon. As a general forecast of the choices that have been made, or that are likely to be made, it can now be assumed that the great majority of companies affected will cease to transact life and industrial business in Eire and confine their future operations to the issue of fire accident, motor, employers' liability, glass, burglary and fidelity guarantee indemnities.

COMPANIES AFFECTED

From inquiries made in Dublin insurance circles it would appear that about thirty "foreign" (including leading British) companies have organisations in Dublin and agencies in various provincial cities, and that not less than twenty of these concerns, including almost every British company, are now compelled to abandon one or other branch of their present activities. Other companies, including Canadian and Australian corporations, whose business is confined to the issue of life policies and annuity contracts, will not be adversely affected.

The consensus of opinion in insurance circles now indicates that the great majority, if not all, of the companies affected will cease to transact life business in Eire, with the result that insurers' choices between competing companies will be confined to the newly-established Irish corporation, which recently acquired the businesses of the Prudential, Pearl, Refuge and other British companies, to certain independent Irish and Colonial offices, and to the three or four British companies who now transact, or may elect to transact, life business only.

Discussing the general results that such restrictions of activity are likely to have on the progress of life insurance in the Twenty-Six Counties, a well known authority expressed the view that an inevitable consequence of the combined provisions of the Act will be a general slowing down of life insurance business in a country which is already notoriously far behind other communities in the development of insurance habits. On American and Colonial standards at least four policies would be current for every one now in force. Even as compared with Great Britain, where insurance standards are comparatively low, the Twenty-Six Counties lag far behind. Thrift, he feared, was not a distinguishing characteristic of his countrymen.

Asked why he anticipated a slowing down of life business, as the result of British offices ceasing to operate, he pointed to the recognised fact that life insurance, unlike other forms of assurances, depended mainly on personal contacts and persuasions. "Not one policy in a hundred," he said, "is 'sold' across the counter. Life insurance, unfortunately, is too frequently regarded either as a luxury or as a provision that can be made some day in the dim and distant future. Not until some friend or business connection uses his powers of persuasion is the prudent and decisive step taken. That is where the carefully selected 'field' staffs of inspectors and agents play their indispensable parts in promoting habits of thrift. If that 'field force' is to be considerably reduced, as now seems to be quite inevitable, the prospect is that the general volume of business will suffer a more or less serious set-back."

EXPERT OPINIONS

Consulted as to the general policy which lay behind the general provisions of the 1936 Act, another insurance expert, who has recently retired after forty years' active experience, said that while it had undoubtedly become necessary to review certain aspects of "industrial" assurance, he could conceive of no good reason for interference with the operations of "ordinary" life companies, whose financial standards and practice were recognised as being among the highest in the world. That reflection applied with special force to many of the leading British corporations, who are now compelled to dismiss scores of their principal officials and employés, and to break with many long-established and valued connections. "I have yet," he added, "to meet a single representative of banking interests who has a good word to say for the Act; and bankers, above all other people, should be able to form sound judgments on a branch of finance that is closely allied to banking transactions."

SPRING AND SUMMER STYLES

ATTRACTIVE DISPLAY

Styles for the spring and summer are being shown this week in the restaurant of Messrs. Brown, Thomas and Co., Ltd., Grafton street, where mannequins are displaying a representative collection of the season's new models.

Although exaggerated styles no longer are in fashion, clothes are by no means uninteresting, and, judging from the ensembles in the mannequin parade, they are infinitely more becoming than those which they succeed.

Colour is the chief feature and vivid shades appear to be popular. Pastel colourings have not, however, lost favour, many of the smartest outfits being carried out in soft, duck egg-blue, lime-green and grey.

A lime-green two-piece suit seen yesterday was accompanied by a tomato-coloured scarf tucked in at the neck, which provided the colour contrast so prevalent this year, and another pretty two-piece ensemble in powder-blue crêpe, had bands of brown fur trimming the pockets of the hip-length, loosely-fitting jacket.

Evening clothes were smart and practical: the short-sleeved dinner dress, cut on slim lines, being the fashionable style. Décolletée evening gowns were also shown, however, and one charming model in black-spotted net, had a full skirt and rows of narrow frilling on the bodice.

Tweeds for every occasion were displayed, among them swagger coats in large checks, and three-piece ensembles of tweed. Tweed suits were also seen; one attractive model of cinnamon tweed had the fashionable, short revers, and was worn with a jade-green sweater and jade-green gloves.

Every form of sport was catered for—even roller skating, for which an attractive scarlet, flared skirt, white sweater and scarlet turban was suggested.

The bridal retinue, always the climax of a fashion parade, fulfilled all expectations on this occasion. The gown of white embossed net was made very simply, with a high neck-line, long, tight sleeves; and the bridesmaids wore slim-fitting, full-skirted dresses of pale pink and pale blue shadow lace, with head-dresses of ribbon to match.

Hats were mostly of the sailor variety, forward-tilted and held in place by a bandeau across the back of the head. Flowers were a popular trimming, as to a certain extent also was veiling; but most of the smartest hats were plainer than in former years.

Accessories were also important. Handbags were generally large, with long handles, enabling them to be carried over one shoulder, and gloves, sweaters and handbag quite often struck a note in contrast with the rest of the ensemble.

STAMPS OF THE WEEK

The Mint Stamp Company, 74 Grafton street, Dublin, have sent us the following new stamps for illustration:—

ICELAND, 1940. New values in the attractive pictorial set. 10a green, 25a carmine, 45a ultramarine. (Sets of 3, price 1s. 4d.)

THE FIRST ADHESIVE POSTAGE STAMP

The Royal Philatelic Society is organising a special exhibition at the London Museum on May 6 to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the first British adhesive postage stamp. Many leading British collectors, including the King, whose stamps are world-famous, have promised to lend their finest specimens, and the Post Office will send an assortment from the official collection. A new issue of stamps to mark the occasion is being prepared in secret, but it is known that it will include a series of five stamps from the halfpenny to the twopence halfpenny in the usual colourings. The designs will, of course, be new. It is expected that the issue will bring in many thousands of pounds in foreign currency, as there is already a big demand from the United States.

"BETTY"

CLEVER PERFORMANCE AT DROGHEDA

Paul Rubens's musical comedy, "Betty," which first saw the light during the last European War, was presented in enjoyable form last night at the Whitworth Hall, Drogheda, by the Drogheda Municipal Choir and Musical Society. There were many admirable features about the show. Eileen M. Burke and Henry D. Jameson, who were jointly responsible for the production, managed their task commendably, and made capital use of the limited stage space at their disposal. The lighting effects also were excellent, and the dresses, especially of the ladies, were attractive and in the best of taste.

There is some excellent material in these two groups. The chorus showed up well, especially in the big part songs. The different lines were well held, the quality of tone being pleasing, and the ensembles nicely balanced. They were intelligent, too, in their stage business. The team work in the smaller choruses also was well done.

The principals were chosen with good judgment. Lily Hegarty played cleverly as Betty, her singing and dancing being much enjoyed. George Ledingham, as the happy-go-lucky Gerard, man about town, was quite good in the rôle. Jimmie Carolan got fairly well into the part of the Duke of Crowborough. Bennie McDonnell imparted a lot of humour into his reading of the brainless Lord Playne, though he was not always happy with his assumed accent. Much the same applies to Bill Reynolds in the leading comedy part of the Court dressmaker, Achille Jotte. He had one good duet with Bryan Cassidy—the "Buttons."

Others in the cast were:—Aggie O'Grady (Lady Playne), Mai Leech (Alf), Carmel Daly (David Playne), Mary Black (Chicquette), Mary O'Mahony (Housekeeper), Bridie McCullough (Jane), James Quinn (Hon. Victor Halifax), Henry Rundle (Cedric), Christy Leonard (Butler), and Anthony McMahon (Lathers).

The orchestra was conducted by Eileen M. Burke, and the stage managers were Miss Nancy McCarthy and Mr. T. W. R. Atkins.

There will be repeat performances to-night and to-morrow night at 8 o'clock.

DUBLIN HISTORICAL RECORD

The March issue of the Dublin Historical Record, published quarterly by the Old Dublin Society, provides interesting and attractive reading. Among its features are articles on Dublin Castle in the 17th century by James L. J. Hughes; "Some Old Street Characters of Dublin," by Robert Cowan; "Religious Life in Old Dublin," by the Rev. Myles V. Ronan; and "In the Shadow of Christ Church," by P. J. McCall. The proceedings of the Old Dublin Society are included with notes on lesser known documents in the City Muniment Room. The cover, a 1610 plan of Dublin, was planned by Mr. F. Gibney, A.I.A.A.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL SOCIETY

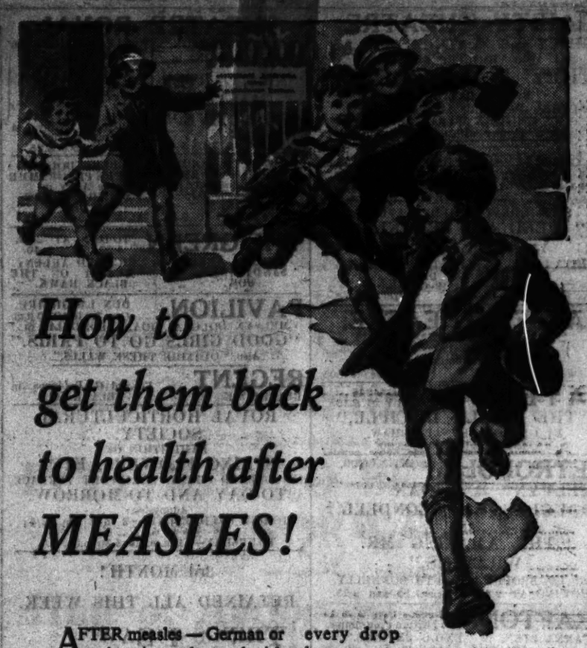
Speaking yesterday in the Mansion House, Dublin, at the quarterly meeting of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, after a discussion on "The Boy Problem," the Rev. Dr. D. Murphy, C.S.Sp., Provincial, Holy Ghost, Kimmage Manor, said that if they wanted to stave off Communism, the people must be given human sympathy and nourishment. People were greatly troubled by the present attacks on the very foundations of the financial system.

Regret at the death of the Ven. Archdeacon Grimes, P.P., was expressed by Sir Joseph Glynn, President of the Council of Ireland.

The attendance included: The Very Rev. Dr. Dargan, President, All Hallows' College; the Very Rev. M. Kirwan, S.J., Provincial, Gardiner street; the Rev. J. Keane, S.J.; the Rev. W. Meehan, C.M.; the Rev. T. Shanahan, C.M.; the Rev. C. Maloney, S.J.; the Rev. H. Young, C.C., and the Rev. F. Perkins, C.C.



How to get them back to health after MEASLES!

AFTER measles—German or otherwise—the real risk is weakness. That is the time when complications and after effects get a grip on the weakened system.

A quick return to health and strength is absolutely essential.

Just taking a medicine is not enough. The real need is for concentrated nourishment in a readily digestible form—in fact for Scotts Brand Emulsion, the food tonic that is made so digestible that within 30 minutes every drop has gone to enrich the blood, to rebuild wasted tissues and to restore vitality.

Scotts Brand Emulsion supplies cod liver oil, hypophosphites, vitamins and essential fats—in fact every form of strengthening nourishment that the weakened system needs.

Don't take risks after measles. Take Scotts—and young and old alike will soon be on their feet again.

But remember to ask for genuine

ARCHITECTURAL ASSOCIATION

THE NEW PRESIDENT

Mr. Simon Leonard, B.Arch., B.Sc., M.R.I.A.I., A.R.I.B.A., was elected President, and Mr. Gerald McNicholl, Vice-President of the Association at the annual general meeting of the Architectural Association of Ireland at 9 Merrion square, Dublin, last night.

It was announced that the combined Architectural and Institute prize had been won by Mr. James S. Wall.

In his valedictory address, the out-going President, Mr. T. P. Kennedy, B.Arch., M.R.I.A.I., said that frank, open discussion of their architectural problems would help to bring the public to a realisation of how much architecture meant.

In a recent public debate exception had been taken by some architects to criticism of the artistic merits of a specific building of recent date. One Dublin architect went so far as to state that criticism of the work of a living architect by another architect at a semi-public debate was unethical and unprofessional.

Mr. Kennedy maintained that that attitude was absurd. Architecture, as with all other arts, must, he said, benefit and be stimulated by criticisms.

As long as he could remember, reference to architectural work carried out in Ireland had, he said, been limited to Press reporters' eulogies on the day of opening.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

The Very Rev. J. P. Phair, Dean of Ossory, yesterday was elected Bishop of Ossory, Ferns and Leighlin by a meeting of the Diocesan Synods of the three dioceses held in St. Canice's Cathedral, Kilkenny. The election is subject to confirmation by the House of Bishops. The Archbishop of Dublin presided.—(Page 6.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Speaking in the House of Commons last night, Mr. Chamberlain denounced German's invasion of Norway and Denmark as a rash and cruel act, and said that Britain had promised full aid to Norway.—(Page 5.)

The Allies' Supreme War Council met in London yesterday and decided, in full agreement, on the military and diplomatic measures to be taken in view of Germany's invasion of Denmark and Norway.—(Page 5.)

ABROAD.

Denmark was occupied by German forces yesterday.—(Page 5.)

The Danish Premier, addressing Parliament last night, said: "We deplore the death of the good son of Denmark who lost their lives in the early hours to-day."—(Page 5.)

The German High Command claimed last night that "all bases of military importance" in Norway were in German hands. Oslo, Trondheim, Bergen, Narvik, Stavanger and Christiansund were stated to be "strongly occupied."—(Page 5.)

SPORTING.

At Nottingham yesterday Ridley won the Newark Handicap.—(Page 8.)

FINANCIAL.

Operators kept calm in the London Stock Markets yesterday, and there was little disposition to reduce commitments. Prices were lowered substantially all round as a precautionary measure. No prices were quoted for Danish and Norwegian Bonds.—(Page 6.)

Irish securities were well maintained in the Dublin Stock Markets yesterday, but cross-Channel issues developed weakness in sympathy with London.—(Page 6.)

According to Plan

Less than thirteen months ago, without a word of warning, German troops marched into Czecho-Slovakia and took possession of Masaryk's Republic. A declaration was issued stating that President Hacha had invited Herr Hitler to take the country under his protection, and within a short space of time Czecho-Slovakia had ceased to exist. Yesterday morning at daybreak, again without a word of warning, the Germans invaded Denmark and Norway. Strangely enough, the first news of this move came from the United States, where it was broadcast at an early hour. Full details are lacking at the moment, because direct communication between the invaded countries and the outside world has been interrupted; but there is no doubt that the German General Staff has brought off a coup which, for sheer spectacular efficiency, surpasses even the invasion and conquest of Poland. In the small hours of yesterday morning German troops crossed the Danish frontier in force, and within less than eighteen hours virtually the entire country had been occupied by motorised divisions. Copenhagen fell without the firing of a shot. The Danish authorities seem to have been taken completely by surprise and to have decided to make the best of a bad job. King Christian made a proclamation to the Danish people counselling calm, and informing his subjects that, in all the circumstances, the Government had decided to accept the protection of Herr Hitler. For the time being, therefore, Denmark as an independent kingdom has disappeared. A small, but sturdy, race that has prided itself for generations on its independence has been reduced within the space of a single day to vassaldom. It is rumoured in Sweden that the British Minister and other members of the Diplomatic Corps in Copenhagen have been taken prisoners; but, as we write, there is no confirmation in London of this story. History affords no parallel to this astonishing manœuvre. When one remembers that Bismarck fought a war for the possession of Schleswig-Holstein nearly eighty years ago, one cannot but marvel at the speed with which Adolf Hitler has over-run the Danish Kingdom.

In some respects the German success vis-à-vis Norway is even more remarkable. Germany has no land frontier with Norway; yet Oslo surrendered yesterday at four o'clock in the afternoon, and by nightfall German troops, having been landed from troopships, had placed themselves in possession of several important strategic positions in various parts of the country. When it was announced on Monday that a British submarine had sunk a German troopship off the Norwegian coast, it was fairly obvious that the Germans were planning an attack; but few, if any, can have anticipated the magnitude of the operation. Unlike the Danes, the Norwegians seem to have put up some kind of fight; but, of course, the odds against them were overwhelming. During the night German warships steamed up the Oslo fjord and were attacked by coastal batteries. Simultaneously naval units seem to have made their way to Christiansund, to Bergen, and even to Trondheim, which is seven hundred miles away from the nearest German port. According to some reports, the Germans already have reached Narvik; and it is quite certain that the whole business had been prepared with typical German thoroughness and considerable skill. The Norwegian Government immediately left Oslo, which also has been evacuated by a large proportion of the civilian population, and it is believed to have established itself temporarily at the lakeside village of Hamar, some eighty miles north of the capital. The Germans admit that they have met with a certain amount of opposition in Norway; but, so far, it is impossible to obtain confirmation of the report that Oslo was bombed from the air. It also does not seem to be certain whether or not the Norwegian Government has sent an official request to London and Paris for assistance against the German invaders; but the British Prime Minister announced in the House of Commons yesterday that both Great Britain and France were determined to do everything in their power to help Norway, and that strong naval forces already were on their way.

Once more Herr Hitler has stolen a march on the Western Allies. He has extended the battle front against Great Britain right up to the Arctic Circle, and has accomplished this remarkable feat almost without an effort. According to official broadcasts from Berlin, the invasion of Denmark and Norway was a direct result of the laying of mines off the Norwegian coast on Monday morning by the British Navy. If this explanation be correct, a miracle must have occurred, because no human agency could have been responsible for such a rapid mobilisation and the transport of troops for seven hundred miles by sea within less than twenty-four hours. Be that as it may, the fact is that Norway and Denmark have been invaded. Germany, for the time being at any rate, has secured her supplies of iron-ore and nickel, and she will not be dislodged from her new conquests without the greatest difficulty. Sweden's position has been made impossible. There were rumours yesterday that the Swedish Government had received an ultimatum from Berlin, but in these times Great Powers do not bother about ultimatums, and, at any rate, in the case of Sweden, resistance to Herr Hitler's will in existing circumstances would be out of the question. King Gustav's realm is sandwiched between Germany and Soviet Russia. From the military point of view, Sweden is helpless, and, if to-morrow Herr Hitler should decide to add the kingdom to his already formidable list of protégés, who could say him nay? Of course, the last word has not been spoken yet. The Allies, and Great Britain in particular, must have anticipated this latest move by the Germans, and it is quite possible that Herr Hitler after all may find himself compelled to fight on two fronts—a prospect which cannot be pleasing to the German General Staff. The extension of Germany's front will be by no means an unmixed blessing, since it will give the British Navy new opportunities for attack. As we go to press there is talk of a naval engagement off the Norwegian coast. Mr. Neville Chamberlain's hint of imminent action suggests that events are moving towards a climax, and that the German invasion of the Scandinavian countries is only a prelude to a major clash between the belligerents.

Feeding Britain

The war has brought many changes to Great Britain, and one of the most notable of them has been the conversion of two million acres of grassland into land ready for crops. True, the goal of two million acres has not yet been attained, but so much progress has been made that, according to the Agricultural Correspondent of The Times, it ought to be reached by the end of this month. The difficulties were formidable. For many years British agriculture had been on the decline; ploughed land had been relapsing into grass, grazing land into waste; hundreds of farms had fallen into ruin, and the "flight from the land" had been more rapid and more widespread in England than it ever has been on this side of the Channel. As statesmen and social reformers are well aware, it is appallingly difficult to check a "tendency." People can be taken, with or against their consent, from the towns and placed on the land, as has happened in certain other countries, but normal methods of discouragement can do little or nothing to arrest a movement when it once has gathered way. If the war had not occurred, the "flight" would have continued; as matters are, it has been checked by sheer necessity. The years of decline, however, have not lightened the task which confronts the British Government. There was—and to some extent, there is—a severe shortage of skilled workers; tractors and modern implements are not nearly abundant enough; generally, the situation was such as to provoke The Times' comment: "It is not surprising that British agriculture was not prepared or equipped last September to undertake a rapid expansion of production." Yet that expansion must be undertaken, if Great Britain is not to accept a grave risk. However effectively the Royal Navy does its work, imports of food cannot be as regular or as plentiful as in time of peace—if only because many merchant ships must be earmarked for the transport of war material. Supplies from Denmark have been irregular during recent months; from now onwards they will come to a full stop. This country can do much to provide Britain with food, but, even if our production could be doubled, it still would be far short of the requirements of Great Britain's forty-odd millions. Manifestly the only safe policy for Britain is to grow her own, or as much of it as can be grown. As time goes on, more and more acres will be brought under the plough. The two million are only a first instalment, but they represent the largest area which, in all the circumstances, reasonably could have been expected by this time. The immediate purpose is to produce feeding-stuffs for animals; for the authorities are under no illusions about their ability to obtain supplies from abroad, and are unwilling to run any risks. Indeed, England's rulers must be regretting by now that they paid so little attention to those people—including Mr. Lloyd George—who warned them years ago that agriculture must not be allowed to decline. Great work has been done in the last few months, but how much more easy would Great Britain be in mind if her agricultural industry had been kept in a flourishing state.

Bottled Up

In its rudimentary form, we suppose, a bottle party consisted of several gentlemen, more concerned with thirst than hygiene, taking turns at emptying a bottle by the direct method. Given more fortunate circumstances, every member of the party was able to produce his own bottle, or flask, and the success of the reunion of old school friends or comrades-in-arms was assured. Captain Cuttle's toast: "May we never want a friend in need, nor a bottle to give him," expressed a very popular sentiment in the old, hard-drinking days, and even to-day suitably filled bottles are regarded as most acceptable presents at Christmas—or at any other time, for that matter. In the era of the "Bright Young Things," most of whom are now dreadfully dull and respectable, it was thought a staggeringly brilliant idea to arrange parties to which the guests brought the "liquid refreshments," an elastic term which included every beverage save the non-alcoholic. The fashion of throwing bottle parties, however, suffered from the tendency of guests to throw the bottles also, when those receptacles, unlike the festive throng, were no longer full. We gather that there has been a revival of this form of entertainment since what the "B.Y.T." would have called "the present schemozzle" started, and the military authorities are not feeling too happy about it, because men of the new army are being lured into what purport to be private entertainments and bled to the back teeth. In fact, if we may take a liberty with Pope: "The bottle party is the madness of many for the gain of a few." So serious has become this method of fleecing the soldiers that the Home Secretary is supposed to be sitting up at night with a wet towel around his head trying to devise some method of combatting the evil. A night club or similar establishment could be dealt with by the simple process of putting it out of bounds for the troops, but this cannot be done in the case of the bottle parties, which purport to be the spontaneous inspiration of the moment on the part of private citizens. It is only when the unfortunate victim finds himself charged five shillings for a bottle of beer, and half a crown for a sandwich which it is considered bad form to eat, that he begins to feel like starting another war on the home front. Any form of robbery is bad, but that which seeks its victims among the men-at-arms at this particular juncture in their country's history is about the lowest kind, if one omits the practice of stealing pennies from a blind man's collecting tin. We would like to see all the persons who dispense this sort of hospitality enjoying the hospitality of the State with the general run of apprehended thieves. It is a matter for congratulation that the bottle party, even in its most innocuous form, never became really popular on this side of the Channel, and the more one hears about the "night life" of our neighbours the more thankful one is that the Irish people do not seem to possess a taste for nocturnal dissipation, and that the last 'bus still serves as curfew for the vast majority of our citizens.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

GERMANY'S LATEST ACT

In a leading article to-day on the invasion of Norway and Denmark, The Times says:—In the early hours of yesterday morning German armed forces invaded two more small and relatively powerless countries, as during the last two years they have entered and seized Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and Poland, and as, a quarter of a century ago, they overran Belgium. In this, as in all their recent assaults, there was no declaration of war and there had been no provocation by the victims.

A treaty of non-aggression recently concluded with Denmark at the special desire of Germany bound the two States in no circumstances to resort to war or any other form of violence against each other. We are facing the facts of this new menace to the independence of free peoples, and facing them in the fullest consultation and collaboration with France. "I have no doubt," Mr. Chamberlain said, "that this further rash and cruel act of aggression will redound to Germany's disadvantage, and contribute to her ultimate defeat." Germany always ends by overreaching herself.

A wave of horror and indignation has spread over the Central European countries. In the Dominions feeling is especially strong, and in the United States there is not the slightest readiness to be duped by the Nazi pretence that the invasions have any sort of justification, or any cause except the German lust for power.

The action of the British Government in placing sea mines in places which could cause nothing, at worst, but inconvenience to Norway, and were designed to prevent the regular abuse of her territorial waters, has been fully understood in the United States. The New York Times writes that between the Allied action, undertaken for this purpose, and the brutal invasion by the force of German arms there is a gap as wide as the difference between night and day. The occupation of Denmark, it continues, extinguishes still another light of civilisation and decency on the continent of Europe. The consequences of making the iron ore mines a direct prize of war will probably be far-reaching. But the immediate and energetic taking up of the new Nazi challenge by the Allies may prove that Hitler has made his worst, and his final, miscalculation.

I.R.A. LETTER TO NEWSPAPERS

25 YEARS AGO

From the Irish Times, 10th April, 1915.

The Western Front.

The British and French forces have taken a strong offensive on the Western Front, and have opened a long line of attacks on the Esparges sector, which dominates the plain of the Woevre. The Germans have put up an obstinate defence for several days, but yesterday the French troops carried about 1,500 metres of trenches and have obtained one of the principal objectives in the operation. In the Bois de Montmare, the Germans made fifteen attacks to retake trenches which the French had wrested from them a week before, and were repulsed fifteen times.

Irish Emigration.

The Registrar-General's return of the number of natives of Ireland who left Irish ports during the month of March shows that 404 males and females emigrated, as compared with 1,426 in the same month last year, a reduction of 1,022. The total number of emigrants for the first three months of the present year was 1,060. In the same period last year the number was 2,657. Of the present month's emigrants, 269 went to the United States.

NORWAY AND DENMARK IN GERMAN HANDS

SWEDEN'S REPLY TO GERMAN DEMAND

Strict Neutrality to be Maintained

NORTH SEA BATTLE REPORTED

Rumour that Bremen has been Sunk

GERMANY occupied Denmark without resistance yesterday, and claims to have seized all ports and strategical points in Norway. There was strong resistance from Norwegian forts, and it is rumoured that the German warship Gneisenau was sunk. The Norwegian Government has gone to Helmar, eighty miles north of Oslo. In the meantime, a Provisional Government, under a leader of the Norwegian Nazi Party, has been set up by the German authorities.

While air and sea battles were fought off Norway throughout the day, and the German forces began their work in completely-occupied Denmark, military and diplomatic measures to meet the invasion of these countries early yesterday were decided on at a swiftly summoned meeting in London of the Supreme War Council last night.

British 'planes were reported in action near Oslo, where the great guns of Oscarborg fortress still thundered in the afternoon at the invaders.

Off the coast a series of naval engagements between German and Allied Fleets were fought in a heavy storm, says Paris.

The German radio claims to have attacked British warships in the North Sea, and to have hit two battleships and two heavy cruisers. The claim is denied by the British Admiralty.

NEUTRALITY OF SWEDEN

Sweden's Parliament met in secret to choose—said the American radio—between invasion or submission to Hitler. A Swedish broadcast, received in London, announced that in reply to a German démarche the Government stated its intention to preserve strict neutrality.

The German Ambassador in Moscow had a four-hour conference with M. Molotoff last night.

An estimated force of 250,000 Germans invaded Denmark and Norway by land, sea and air, and Denmark capitulated without resistance.

German warships passed coastal forts up Oslo Fjord, bombed Christiansand, and landed forces which occupied many towns. There was some resistance.

Late last night as the rumble of the coastal batteries was heard in Norway, the German High Command claimed that all important military bases were in their hands.

The German radio suggestion that Britain planned to invade the Netherlannds—denied as "fantastic" in London—was followed by cancellation of Dutch Army and Air Force leave.

Cabinets met in London, Paris, The Hague and Stockholm. President Roosevelt and his Secretary of State went to Washington, where the President said a proclamation might be issued to-night extending the United States' neutrality laws to Norway and Denmark.

Early this morning there was a rumour in Amsterdam that the Bremen had been sunk, with 1,300 men aboard.

NORWEGIAN PORTS OCCUPIED

Berlin Claims Successes on Sea and Land

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

BERLIN, Tuesday.

The German High Command announced to-night:—

"At the end of the day all bases of military importance in Norway are in German hands. Narvik, Trondheim, Bergen, Stavanger, Christiansand and Oslo are especially strongly occupied.

"Where serious resistance was encountered—for instance, at Oslo and Christiansand—it was broken.

"Norway's coastal fortifications, which were taken in close co-operation between the Navy, Air Force and Army shock troops, are now ready to repel any enemy attack.

SEA FIGHTS

"Squadrons of our Air Force partly established in Norwegian aerodromes caused heavy losses to an Anglo-French naval detachment west of Bergen to-night. According to reports so far received, two battleships and two heavy cruisers were hit several times by bombs.

"Quiet reigns in Norway and Denmark. Further strong German forces are entering those countries unhindered by the efforts of the enemy, and according to plan."

An additional communiqué stated:—"According to reconnaissance reports, strong units of the German Air Force left Denmark and Norway this afternoon to meet British naval forces.

"Enemy battleships, including heavy and light cruisers, as well as destroyers, were encountered in the northern part of the North Sea."

"According to radio reports so far received, the first results of our attack can be given as three direct hits by heavy bombs on each of two battleships and direct hits on two heavy cruisers.

"One ship has a heavy list and another is on fire. Big patches of oil cover the surface of the sea."

HOW OSLO FELL

AIR BATTLES OVER CITY

Twelve hours after launching his latest "Blitzkrieg," Hitler's troops marched into Oslo, the Norwegian capital, at three o'clock this afternoon. Nazi transports steaming up the Oslo Fjord ran the gauntlet of the Norwegian shore defences and landed men at two points on its western shores.

Vallo was occupied at 6 a.m. and Tonsberg four hours later. To-night it was reported that the guns of the Oscarborg fortress, near the mouth of the fjord, which had been in action all day, were still thundering at the Nazi invader.

OCCUPATION ADMITTED

The Norwegian Admiralty announced this afternoon that the Western Norwegian port of Bergen had been captured by the Germans. Trondheim, further north, was also believed to be in their hands. One German warship, it was added, had reached the famous iron ore port of Narvik and landed a small detachment, "probably after an engagement with the Norwegian Navy."

A German cruiser, the Admiralty said, had run aground after being in action with the Oscarborg batteries earlier in the day.

Christiansand, Horten and other places in Southern Norway were shelled and bombed, but it is believed that they are still holding out.

German warships and transports were first engaged by the Norwegian coastal batteries at the mouth of the Oslo fjord at 4.30 a.m., when violent gunfire was heard. Fierce air battles were fought over Oslo throughout the day. One German 'plane and either one or two Norwegian machines are reported to have been brought down.

According to the Norwegian Admiralty, the Germans bombed the Oslo east station three times without scoring any direct hits. Several people are stated to have been injured when the airport at Kjeller, on the outskirts of the city was attacked.

All strategic points and streets in Oslo are now patrolled by German troops.

GERMAN DESTROYER LOST

Press reports in Stockholm say the occupation of Tronheim began at five a.m. and was completed in two hours. Four German cruisers are now anchored in the roads.

According to the latest reports reaching Stockholm, a German warship—probably a destroyer—was sunk by Norwegian coastal batteries at Droebank in the Oslo fjord. The aerodrome at Kjillar is said to have been completely destroyed in to-day's raid, which took place at eight a.m., but the adjacent town of Lillestroem escaped damage. At least six aeroplanes took part.

BRITISH 'PLANES IN ACTION

British 'planes are reported to have been engaged in an air battle over Moss, on the eastern shore of the Oslo fjord, at five o'clock to-night. A force of about 200 German troops had landed at Moss just after mid-day. They were escorted by two German destroyers. North of Moss 2,000 Nazis disembarked about the same time and marched towards Oslo.

Large numbers of the German troops who occupied Norwegian ports were transported by 'plane, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Dutch newspaper Algemeen Handelsblad. Two divisions, with field artillery, are said to have been carried in this way. The troops had been undergoing intensive training in air transport. German transport 'planes carry some 30 men each.

It is estimated that 250,000 men were used in the invasions of Norway and Denmark.

MANNING A NEW LINE

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

STOCKHOLM, Tuesday.

Dramatic messages from Oslo late to-day said that the Norwegian capital surrendered to the invading German forces at 4 p.m. The Norwegian police chief had resigned, to be replaced by German police officials. North of Oslo, the report said, Norwegian anti-aircraft fire brought down two German 'planes.

The Norwegian Army is reported to be manning a new defence line between Oslo and Hamar to guard the new capital and give cover for mobilisation in inland towns.

NEW GOVERNMENT AT OSLO

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL

BERLIN, Tuesday.

The names of the men in the so-called new Government set up in Oslo are given as:

Premier and Foreign Minister—Vidkun Quisling;

Defence Minister—Major Wesslaw;

Social Minister—Gulbrand Lunde;

Minister of Justice—Jonas Lie; and

Minister of Labour—Ernst Skaneke.

An appeal to the Norwegian public by a so-called new Norwegian Government was read over the German-controlled Oslo wireless to-day, according to an Oslo telegram.

The speaker, M. Vidkun Quisling, who introduced himself as the head of the "new Government," declared that the Norwegian Government had resigned and had been replaced by a National Coalition Government. The National Government had assumed power to protect the interests of Norway at the present moment.

TO STAY NEUTRAL

ASSURANCE TO GERMANY

According to a Swedish broadcast last night, the German Government, through its Minister in Stockholm, enquired of the Swedish Government if Sweden was going to maintain its neutrality. The Swedish Government, stated the broadcast, replied that they intended to preserve strict neutrality.

In Swedish circles in London this exchange is assumed to have given rise to the New York report that Hitler had given Sweden the alternative of accepting German protection or suffering invasion.

King Gustav Adolf of Sweden presided at a special meeting of the Swedish Cabinet to-day. News of the German invasion of Denmark and Norway caused consternation in Stockholm, where the special editions of the newspapers were eagerly snatched up. The Swedish Chamber was summoned to meet in secret session at eight o'clock on Wednesday night.

MEETING OF PARLIAMENT

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

MALMO, SWEDEN, Tuesday.

THE whole of Denmark was virtually in German hands to-night, following an invasion, which the Danish Government decided "under protest" to accept without resistance.

Copenhagen, the capital, was one of the first cities occupied.

As German transports steamed into the harbour at six o'clock this morning and landed troops, fifty war 'planes carried out a demonstration flight over the city.

This afternoon German forces were occupying the Skaw, at the northern tip of Denmark, facing the Skagerrak, which divided Denmark from Norway.

Nearly all important towns and strategic centres have been seized by German troops.

The official German wireless claims that, with the exception of a very small part, the whole of Denmark has now been occupied.

The German troops which completed the invasion consisted of artillery, infantry, air force and marines, but the exact numbers involved are not known.

GESTAPO AT WORK

Copenhagen, a centre of Nazi espionage even before the war, is full of Nazi agents, and the Gestapo is reported to be already at work, acting on the basis of lists of names compiled well in advance.

The German 'planes which flew over Copenhagen dropped leaflets announcing the invasion, and calling on the population to remain calm and maintain order.

The occupation was carried out with striking mobility and smoothness.

All Danish ships are strictly forbidden to leave Danish ports, says a decree announced by the Danish Radio Station now in German hands. This ban applies also to fishing vessels and other small craft.

PARLIAMENT MEETS

"We deplore the death of those good sons of Denmark, who lost their lives in the early hours of this day," said M. Stauning, the Danish Prime Minister, in a significant passage of a statement in the Rikstag (Parliament) to-night.

He then announced that negotiations were in progress for the reconstruction of the Government on a broader basis. The consent of all parties for such a reconstruction had been obtained. Further details will be announced at to-morrow's meeting of the House, the Premier said.

In closing the meeting the speaker said: It is only Denmark, and nothing but Denmark, which matters now.

FATE OF BRITISH DIPLOMATISTS

The fate of the British Legation and the other British subjects is not known.

A Washington telegram states that Mr. Ray Atherton, the United States Minister in Copenhagen, has been authorised by the State Department to look after British interests in Denmark, following the internments of the British Minister in Copenhagen.

The German wireless announced that Mr. Harold Smith, His Majesty's Minister in Copenhagen, and his staff were made prisoners. It has been impossible to establish any communication with Mr. Smith.

To make the Minister and his staff prisoners is undoubtedly a breach of international custom.

It is conceivable, however, that they may subsequently be released.

ALLIED AID STILL SECRET

The French nation to-night moved swiftly in harmony with its British ally to bring military and naval aid to Norway.

Details are still a closely guarded national defence secret.

Semi-official sources to-night hinted that new and tremendous developments would soon explain the extent of Allied aid to Norway.—Associated Press.

GERMAN INVASION DENOUNCED

"Rash and Cruel Act," says Mr. Chamberlain

FULL AID TO BE GIVEN TO NORWAY

Hint of Action by Powerful Naval Units

MR. CHAMBERLAIN asserted, in the House of Commons last night, that the German invasion of Denmark and Norway was not only planned, but already in operation, before the British and French Navies laid their mines in Norwegian waters.

Heard by the Envoys of almost every neutral country in Europe, the Premier declared that at no time had the Allies contemplated any occupation of Scandinavian territory "so long as it was not attacked by Germany." Any German allegations to the contrary were pure invention.

"This fresh rash and cruel act of aggression will redound to Germany's disadvantage and contribute to her ultimate defeat," he said, amid cheers.

The British Government had informed the Norwegian Government that they had decided forthwith to extend their full aid, and to fight the war in full association with them.

"Powerful units of the Navy are at sea, but it would not be in the public interest to give details as to any operations in which they were now engaged."

Mr. Chamberlain, who was received with prolonged cheers, said: As the House will be aware, Germany has to-day invaded Denmark and Norway. Ever since the beginning of the present war she has attempted to dominate Scandinavia and to control both the political and economic policy of the Scandinavian States.

Her pressure on these States has been steadily increasing, and, as is now well known, she claimed to exercise the right to dictate their policy towards Finland during the Finnish-Soviet war. The House will recall that in the statement which I made at the end of that war, on March 19, I used the following words in speaking of the struggle:

"What is the result for Scandinavia? The security of Finland has gone, but has the security of Norway and Sweden been preserved? On the contrary, the danger has been brought closer than ever to these two countries, till to-day it stands upon their doorsteps."

ALLIES' DECISION

After expressing sympathy with these States, to whom I said the issue of the war could not be a matter of indifference, I concluded: "Nothing will or can save them but a determination to defend themselves and to join with others who are ready to aid them in their defence." (Cheers.) Some of my listeners may have thought these words exaggerated, but now we see the fulfilment to the letter of the prophecy they contained.

Since that date the situation has further developed. As was pointed out in the statement issued by His Majesty's Government yesterday, the German Government have claimed and exercised the right to destroy neutral, and particularly Scandinavian, ships on the seas around this country by all the means in their power, but, at the same time, they have insisted upon the strictest observation of the rules of neutrality where they would provide some advantage to them as they did in Norwegian waters.

The Allies then decided that they could not acquiesce indefinitely in this state of affairs—(cheers)—and, having given notice to the Norwegian Government that they reserved the right to take such measures as might be necessary to redress the balance thus weighted against them, they laid minefields in Norwegian waters so as to prevent the unhindered passage of German traffic through them, while in no way interfering with normal Norwegian trade.

DENMARK AND NORWAY

At no time did the Allies contemplate any occupation of Scandinavian territory, so long as it was not attacked by Germany. Any allegations by Germany to the contrary are pure invention and have no foundation in fact. The German Government have now issued a statement to the effect that they have decided to take over the protection of Denmark and Norway. (Ironical laughter.) German motorised and armoured forces crossed the Danish frontier at daybreak, and a considerable area of Danish territory is in German occupation. Their troops are reported to have landed at Copenhagen this morning.

His Majesty's Government have learned that the German Minister at Oslo early to-day made a formal demand for the surrender of Norway to Germany, and stated that, in the event of refusal, resistance would be crushed. This demand was, of course, immediately refused by the Norwegian Government—(cheers)—as they have officially declared.

PLANNING IN ADVANCE

We have now heard that fighting has already started, and there are Press reports that Oslo and Christiansund have since been bombed. German troops have landed on Norwegian territory at various places. It is asserted by the German Government that their invasion of Norway was a reprisal for the action of the Allies in mining Scandinavian territorial waters. This statement will, of course, deceive no one. So elaborate an operation, involving simultaneous landings at a number of ports of troops, accompanied by naval forces, requires planning long in advance. The information now coming to hand clearly indicates that it was not only planned, but was already in operation, before the mines were laid in Scandinavian territorial waters.

GERMAN LINER AND WARSHIP SUNK

Report Current in Holland

FLEETS IN ACTION IN HEAVY STORM

TWO rumours current in Holland to-night were, says a Press Association War Special from Amsterdam last night:—

(1) That the German warship Gneisenau had been sunk by Norwegian coastal batteries, and

(2) The German liner Bremen had gone down with 1,300 men on board.

The German radio reported to-night, the message adds, that German aircraft had attacked British warships in the North Sea.

BATTLE AT SEA IN STORM

PARIS, Tuesday.

A battle between Allied and German Fleets is reported to be taking place in a heavy storm off several points on the Norwegian coast. Actions are proceeding in a rolling sea.

According to well-informed quarters here, there have been naval engagements to-day off Oslo, Bergen and Trondheim.

A German cruiser is said to have been sunk in the Oslo Fjord.

A warning has been issued here against accepting reports of German successes in Norway, which are regarded as attempts to terrorise the neutrals.

GERMANS CLAIM FOUR SHIPS HIT

BERLIN, Tuesday.

German aircraft, operating from bases in Norway, attacked an Anglo-French naval detachment west of Bergen to-night, according to a German High Command communiqué.

Two battleships and two heavy cruisers were hit several times by bombs, the Germans claim.

The official German wireless adds that one ship had a heavy list and another was on fire. Patches of oil covered the surface of the sea.

BRITISH DENIAL

The following communiqué was issued by the British Admiralty last night:—

"The German claim to have hit and seriously damaged by bombs two battleships and two heavy cruisers is not correct.

"The truth is that no battleship has been damaged, but two cruisers received very slight damage from splinters."

GERMAN STEAMER TORPEDOED

The German steamer Amasis (7,000 tons) has been torpedoed off the western coast of Sweden, according to a Lysekil despatch, says a Press Association War Special from Stockholm early this morning.

The crew were saved by pilot vessels from Lysekil. The ship is reported to be sinking.

BRITISH BOMBERS OVER GERMANY

A squadron of British bombers was over North-Western Germany this morning, according to an official German broadcast, picked up by the National Broadcasting Company here.

The broadcast claimed that the bombers were repulsed by German fighter 'planes.

which are now public property, suffice in themselves to prove what I have just said. It is reported that Trondheim, among other places, has been invaded by German armed forces this morning.

PROMISE TO NORWAY

The distance of the nearest German port, Cuxhaven, to Trondheim is nearly 700 miles, and assuming that the expedition started immediately after the announcement of the mining operation within the Scandinavian territorial waters they could not have yet arrived. (Hear, hear.) There is, therefore, no doubt that the German plans for the invasion of Norway and Denmark were made and put into operation long before the Allied mining of Scandinavian territorial waters.

It remains to say that His Majesty's Government at once assured the Norwegian Government that, in view of the German invasion of their territory, His Majesty's Government have decided forthwith to extend their full aid to Norway, and have intimated that we will fight in full association with them. (Cheers.) Powerful units of the Navy are at sea. (Cheers.) Members will realise that it will not be in the public interest to give details at this stage as to any operations in which they are engaged.

Needless to say, we are facing this new menace to the independence of free peoples in closest collaboration with the French Government, whose forces are co-operating together with our own. I have no doubt that this further rash and cruel act of aggression will redound to Germany's disadvantage, and will contribute to her ultimate defeat. (Cheers.)

OPPOSITION VIEW

"BRUTAL AGGRESSION"

Mr. Attlee, leader of the Opposition, expressed the sympathy of all with the people of Denmark and Norway—"two of the most highly civilised nations in Europe, now being attacked by the most barbarous." It was another instance of utterly brutal aggression. He hoped that the aid offered to Norway would be "given in full, that it will be speedy, and that it will be effective."

Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the Liberal Opposition, also expressed the hope that the Government's action would be swift and effective.

"In that action we shall certainly support the Government."

Mr. Ben Smith (Labour, Rotherhithe) inquired if the Government contemplated going to the aid of Denmark.

Mr. Chamberlain—I can add nothing to the statement I have made.

The Prime Minister stated that he had no information regarding the fate of the Danish Government and the Danish Royal Family.

GERMANS AT BERGEN

Mr. Mander (Labour, Wolverhampton) asked for information regarding the alleged occupation by Germany of Bergen and Narvik.

"It is a very tragic and remarkable thing that this expedition should have taken place while the British Fleet held the seas." It was extremely puzzling. (Ministerial cries of "Oh" and "Order.")

Amid interruptions of cries of "Haw Haw" and "Wait and see," Mr. Mander continued—that this was a very astonishing thing, and it was just as well that it should be said. He asked if any proposal had been made that an appeal should be made to the League.

Mr. Chamberlain said that their information was that German forces had landed at Bergen. There had been reports of a similar landing at Narvik, but it was doubtful whether that was correct. There was another place of a very similar name in the south, and possibly there had been some confusion. As to the action of the Navy, he was sure the House would wish to reserve judgment until it had further information.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

No suggestion had been made to the Government about any meeting of the League of Nations.

"I would say generally that first things must come first. There are things which will be more effective than summoning the League of Nations."

Mr. Arthur Henderson (Labour, Kingswinford) declared that nations belonging to the League of Nations had as great a responsibility in relation to German aggression against Denmark and Norway as Britain and France. He asked the Prime Minister for an assurance that while first things must come first, the Government intended to see that this new aggression was considered by the Council of the League, bearing in mind that the League was not quite so helpless as some people thought, and it was possible for the assistance of Britain to Denmark and Norway to be helped by other nations at Geneva.

The Prime Minister replied that he hoped all League members would recognise their obligations to victims of aggression. He could not bind himself to any particular action by the League. First things must come first.

Mr. Maxton (I.L.P., Bridgeton) said that if the present temper of the world continued world-wide chaos would result. He did not think that the present moment was appropriate for overthrowing the British Government, as suggested by Mr. Gallacher, but there would have to be substantial changes before peace was secured.

GERMAN MINES IN BALTIC

Germany is reported to have laid mines from Lindesnes, on the Southern tip of Norway, to Skagen, Northern Denmark, thus closing the Skagerrak entrance to the Baltic.

A report from Gothenburg, in Western Sweden, says that German minelayers have been seen at work in the Skagerrak all to-day.

The Norwegians are reported to be still resisting the Germans in several places, but to-night all was quiet in the immediate vicinity of Oslo.

LITTLE NATIONS IN PANIC

FEAR EXTENSION OF WAR

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The little nations of South-eastern Europe were thrown into a state of near panic to-day by news of the German invasion of Norway and Denmark, which was interpreted universally as meaning that the war will be extended soon throughout the Continent.

Official quarters in Turkey frankly speculated whether Britain and France, with the northern battlefronts seemingly cut off from them, would be forced to make a counter-move with the Allied Army in South-Eastern Europe.

All quarters in Hungary, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey were unanimous in declaring that the Allies must now carry on a war on all fronts, and, therefore, must soon force Italy to come out either for them or against.

MANY CONFERENCES IN PARIS

SECRET SESSION POSTPONED

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

PARIS, Tuesday.

M. Paul Reynaud, the Premier, summoned at 7 o'clock at the Quai d'Orsay a conference of heads of the General Staff and Service Ministers.

After the conference the members went on to the Elysee, where a larger meeting of the War Cabinet, presided over by President Lebrun, was held.

At 10.20 General Gamelin, General Vuillemin and Admiral Darlan left the Elysee, and a Ministerial Council, also presided over by President Lebrun, was held.

At 11 o'clock M. Reynaud received the Norwegian Minister, and made a statement on the intentions of the French and British Governments on similar lines to the London declaration. In view of the difficulty of communications the Government took immediate steps to radio a statement to the Norwegian Government, which had left Oslo for the north.

At 3.10 p.m. the Senate met, but the eagerly awaited secret session was postponed until 3 p.m. to-morrow.

ITALY

TACTICAL VICTORY OVER ALLIES

"WAIT-AND-SEE" ATTITUDE

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ROME, Tuesday.

Authoritative Italians to-night saw the German invasion of Norway and Denmark as a tactical victory over the Allies, without immediate danger of involving Italy in the war. The German Ambassador, Baron von Mackensen, informed both Mussolini and Count Ciano, the Italian Foreign Minister, of Germany's move in Scandinavia. In Government circles it was said that Italy would continue its "wait-and-see" attitude until its own interests became involved.

Italian and foreign observers alike failed to share the anxiety of the smaller Balkan countries that General Weygand's Allied Army in the Near East might be drawn into the war by the opening of a new front in the North.

The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano attacked the invasion as "laying hands not only on the neutrality, but also on the independence of Norway." The conflict between the belligerents in Scandinavian waters was a naval conflict, and should have remained limited to the sea, it was stated.

TROOPS RECALLED FROM LEAVE

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Dutch Government to-night ordered all men on leave to return to their regiments immediately "as a precautionary measure" as the Cabinet met to discuss latest developments in Scandinavia. To-night's order was more sweeping than that which was issued during the morning banning all future leave for men belonging to coastal and border defence units.

Semi-official sources emphasised that Holland was "standing out of it" so far as the latest extension of the war is concerned, although the invasion of Norway and Denmark presented Queen Wilhelmina's Ministers with fresh and serious problems.

THE POSITION OF HOLLAND

GERMAN ALLEGATIONS AGAINST BRITAIN

The German wireless yesterday stated that Germany would answer any British attempt at "involving further neutral countries in the war so as to use them as a base for operations against Germany. It appears that Britain has not yet got enough. There are reports that Britain is planning similar violence of the neutrality of other countries, as was the case in Norway. Reports from Amsterdam state that the Western Powers are discussing the methods by which these Powers might take further measures in order to weaken Germany. Germany will answer such criminal attempts blow for blow."—(Press Association War Special.)

GERMAN TROOPS ON FRONTIER

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

It was learned in authoritative quarters to-night that seven German Army divisions, numbering about 100,000 men, are now quartered at Bruck, which is the German frontier station on the Budapest-Vienna railway line.

The explanation given was that they were Prussian troops sent to Bruck "for a rest from war activities." Foreign observers stated, however, that they might easily be pressed into service in South-eastern Europe if the need should arise.

WATCH ON THE DANUBE

GERMANS WANT TO POLICE RIVER

SAFEGUARDING OIL AND FOOD TRAFFIC

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BELGRADE, Tuesday.

THE Nazis want to police the River Danube throughout its entire length, so as to secure their oil and food supply line to the Black Sea.

It was learnt on high authority here to-day that the German Government has demanded that Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Rumania should accept Nazi rivers police for the Danube over the stretches which pass through their countries. Hungary and Yugoslavia, it was said, had "tentatively" rejected such a proposal on a previous occasion, but Bulgaria was understood to have agreed.

According to some reports received here, German police already are patrolling the Bulgarian stretches of the river.

By the Convention of the Danube of 1921, as modified on March 2, 1939, the river is controlled by representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Rumania and Germany, the last-named being admitted to membership last year.

Authoritative quarters close to the Government confirmed that Germany had demanded that the Danubian nations agree to permit Nazi gunboats in their territorial waters to guard the Reich's oil and food traffic on the Danube, states a Budapest telegram.

It was understood that Hungary was not prepared to refuse the German request in view of the Nazis' reported offer to keep their gunboats in the middle of the river, without allowing the crews to land, although informed quarters admitted it would be at least a technical violation of Hungary's neutrality.

CERTIFICATES INSTEAD OF MONEY

FOOD RESTRICTIONS FOR DANES

Copenhagen Radio announced last night that German troops in Denmark will use instead of money "Reichskreditkasse" certificates as legal tender for purchases in Denmark. The rate of exchange has been fixed at one Reichsmark for two Kroner.

"German currency must not be accepted from German soldiers, who are entitled to requisition goods against receipts."

Restrictions on the purchase by the Danish public of petrol, food and other necessities in Denmark were announced.

Foodstuffs may be bought in quantities not exceeding requirements for four days, and prices may not be raised beyond yesterday's level. Petrol and paraffin may only be obtained by special permit, and petrol permits will only be granted for business purposes.

Traffic on a number of Danish railway lines has been suspended until further notice.

FRANCO-BRITISH MEASURES

Supreme Council's Decision

COMPLETE UNITY OF AIM

REPRESENTATIVES of Britain and France, in London yesterday, decided upon the military and diplomatic measures to be taken in view of Germany's invasion of Norway and Denmark.

The announcement was made in the following communiqué issued last night in London:—

"The seventh meeting of the Supreme War Council was held in London this afternoon.

"Great Britain was represented by Mr. Chamberlain, Viscount Halifax, Mr. Winston Churchill, Mr. Oliver Stanley, and Sir Samuel Hoare, who were accompanied by Sir Alexander Cadogan, Sir Cyril Newall, Sir Dudley Pound, and Sir Edmund Ironside.

"France was represented by M. Reynaud and M. Daladier, who were accompanied by M. Corbin, Admiral Darlan, and General Koeltz.

"The Council met to consider the situation resulting from the German invasion of Norway and Denmark. The representatives of the two countries passed the whole position in review, and decided in full agreement upon the various measures, military and diplomatic, to be taken to meet this latest act of German aggression."

WORLD VIEWS OF INVASION

ITALY PRAISES GERMAN MOVE

A world stunned by surprise yesterday heard the news of the German invasion of Denmark and Norway.

The comment in the different countries varies considerably, and the following are characteristic references:—

The New York Times says:—"It will be said that when British warships entered Norwegian waters in the early hours of Monday morning for the purpose of laying mines along the coast the Allies had, in effect, invaded the Scandinavian States, and Germany had no alternative but to follow suit. "This argument is specious; the Germans themselves long ago took the initiative in this matter.

"The Allied technical violation of Norway's neutrality was a humane illegality. Between the Allied action undertaken for this purpose and the brutal invasion by the force of German arms there is a gap as wide as the difference between night and day."

The Washington Star says that the Allies must act quickly and decisively or lose the war.

GERMANY PRAISED

The Italian Fascist Press reaction is unanimously pro-German. Germany is described as having won the latest round in the European conflict by "the most audacious expedition of modern times." The commentators condemn Britain's violation of Norwegian waters, and Germany is praised for "beating the Allies to the post."

Dr. Virginio Gayda, writing in the Giornale d'Italia, says:—"The Allies made a grave mistake when they openly violated Norway's neutrality, and adds that Germany has not only warded off the Franco-British threat and assured her supplies, but has also reversed the Scandinavian situation in her favour. This is an obvious success.

"Italian public opinion, which condemned the Democratic Powers' violation of Norwegian neutrality, regards the steps taken by Germany as entirely legitimate," writes the Diplomatic Correspondent of the official Stefani Agency.

MINE-LAYING BLAMED

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

What was published of the contents of the Franco-British Notes to Norway and Sweden did not prepare the public for the shock of the Allied mining, writes the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter to-day. "The Scandinavians do not sympathise with the idea that the German sinking of neutral vessels gives the right to the Allies to deprive a neutral State of rights hitherto retained at least in its own waters."

"This mine-laying," says Svenska Dagbladet, "can only be characterised as a breach of international law that is without the extenuating circumstances which the Western Powers vainly seek to advance. We in Sweden were obliged to swallow German mine-laying in our claimed four mile limit, which is certainly not so significant as the putting aside of Norway's rights in her territorial waters by the Western Powers."

The Stockholm Tidningen says:—"One has to go back a long time in history to find a parallel to this violation of Norway's neutrality and sovereignty. It constitutes nothing short of an aggression by two great Powers against a small, poorly-equipped nation. The motive given absolutely lacks legal understanding."

HOWTH DISTRICT COUNCIL

RATES DUE TO RAILWAY COMPANIES

At the meeting of Howth Urban District Council last night, the question of repayment of rates due to railway companies was discussed, and Mr. R. J. Burke said that if the repayment was not spread over a number of years there would be a strike of ratepayers or a revolution.

The acting Town Clerk, Mr. P. J. McKenna, said that the Council was liable for £606, which they would have to refund to the Great Northern Railway, and which would represent 2½d. in the £ over a period of three years.

A letter was read from the Association of Municipal Authorities stating that the railway company had stated that once their legal position was secured they would be willing to discuss the question of repayment by instalments.

It was agreed to strike a rate to cover a third of the repayments this year.

A resolution forwarded by Limerick County Council, calling the Government to relieve the ratepayers of the burden of repayments to the railway companies, was adopted.

A vote of sympathy with Mr. T. Early, solicitor, on the death of his father, was adopted.

IN DAIL AND SENATE

Both Houses of the Oireachtas will meet to-day. The Dail will have the second stage of the measure dealing with the Institute for Advanced Studies before it and three other bills concerning Local Government. The Estimates for Posts and Telegraphs, Justice and Local Government will also be on the Order Paper.

The Senate will discuss further stages of the Seeds and Fertilisers Bill and the Fire Brigades Bill.

The Play produced by John Ison.

"THE Devil's Disciple" always has been one of the most popular of Shaw's plays in Dublin, and, judging from the size of the audience which it drew to the Gate Theatre last night, its revival by the Longford Productions is likely to give it new life with us for many another year. A humorous melodrama, it has two lines of appeal which are most successfully interwoven by the master dramatist, who was just beginning to conquer his material when it was written over forty years ago. It is still fresh, with his early surge of power, even though he thought, when it brought him his first big financial success, that it was not the one of his plays which was likely to last longest. He felt that when some of the ideas then advanced, which it expressed, would be no longer new, it might be seen as having only just the bare bones of melodrama, and nothing more. In this, Shaw was not as good a critic of his own as he had been of other people's plays, for the ironic redemption of Dick Dudgeon has in it a touch of undying appeal in the theatre, and it keeps some of the best of Shaw for us in his simpler manner.

Written as a melodrama, it became, and remains, something that is a great deal more. Yet there seemed to be a certain straining on the part of Mr. John Ison, the producer, in this case, to accentuate its melodramatic quality at the expense of nearly all its other side—that is in the outward manner of its scenes, while at the same time he did not quite succeed in giving it the true pace and swing of melodrama throughout. This, no doubt, is the play's major difficulty, for Shaw, when he wrote it, was already beginning to develop the habit of holding up his action for the purpose of giving us what was even better—his delicious talk; and this kind of play should move without making us think. Still, he was on the way to becoming the most thought-provoking dramatist of his age, and it was just an experiment in that direction.

Thus it is that in "The Devil's Disciple," early Shaw though it is, he seems to present those who would perform him with all the difficulties, as well as all the rich opportunities, of the dramatic manner which later he was to make so truly his own, and a wholly successful production of this play is not so easy as it might seem at first sight.

Between Dick Dudgeon and the Rev. Anthony Anderson there is little to choose so far as the quality of their respective parts is concerned, and last night Mr. Hamlyn Benson did more with the clergyman than Mr. Ronald Ibbs was able to do with the hero, although that would not seem to be altogether what the dramatist intended. Miss Cathleen Delaney did not find any like complications in the appeal which she was able so easily to give to the clergyman's wife, for this is one of Shaw's least complex and most charming heroines. In the earlier scenes, when the movement even of words has, of necessity, perhaps, to feel a trifle slow, Miss Jean Anderson, as Mrs. Dudgeon, and Miss Deirdre O'Meara, as Essie, helped most successfully to give Dick Dudgeon his necessary background. It was not, however, until we came to Mr. Blake Gifford, as General Burgoyne, and Michael Ripper, as Major Swindon, in the trial scene, that we got some of the very best moments of the play. While we got the perfect turn of Shavian epigram from Mr Gifford, we could pause in our laughter to realise how much, at the stage of his development represented by "The Devil's Disciple," Shaw owed to Wilde for having showed him the way and given him the realisation of what was in him as a dramatist.

A very welcome offering from the Longford Productions, the play was immensely successful with its first-night audience.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN

At the meeting of the Governing Body of University College, Dublin, yesterday, it was decided to recommend Professor A. W. Conway to the Senate of the National University as successor to Dr. Denis Coffey as President of the College.

Professor Conway, who is Acting President of the College, presided at the meeting.

Professor Conway was proposed by Professor T. J. Nolan, and the motion was seconded by the Rev. J. Burke. Professor C. O'Kiely proposed a motion that "A skilled knowledge of Irish should be an essential qualification, but the motion was ruled out of order by the Chairman, who said that he was advised that the Governing Body had no power to require such qualification.

A motion that a knowledge of Irish would be a desirable qualification was lost.

BISHOPRIC OF OSSORY

VERY REV. J. P. PHAIR ELECTED

ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN'S ADDRESS

FROM OUR REPORTER.

KILKENNY, Tuesday.

THE DEAN OF OSSORY, the Very Rev. John Percy Phair, to-day was elected—subject to confirmation by the House of Bishops—to the Bishopric of Ossory, Ferns and Leighlin, at a meeting of the Synods of the joint diocese, held in St. Canice's Cathedral, Kilkenny.

The Archbishop of Dublin (the Most Rev. Dr. Barton) presided.

Addressing the Synods, the Archbishop said that their late Bishop, the Right Rev. Ford Tichborne, had come to dwell among them in circumstances which presented difficulties. He had been unknown to most of them, and had no experience of work in a southern diocese. It needed courage on his part to undertake this new and arduous duties connected with his office there. He had been with them only eighteen months, but in that time had managed to win their hearts. "Not only after his death, but before it," said the Archbishop, "I heard many of you speak of him in terms of sincerest affection."

MANY CHANGES

Their diocese, continued the Archbishop, had had more changes in its episcopate since Disestablishment, and during that period had prepared more bishops for the primac than any ther diocese in the Church of Ireland. Three of their bishops had been elected to the Archbishopric of Dublin; five out of the seven Primates of Armagh had been originally consecrated for the Diocese of Ossory, Ferns and Leighlin. To-day they were met to elect the ninth bishop in post-Establishment years.

The election was the first to be held under the regulations passed at the General Synod of May, 1939, by which voting took place on a select list drawn up by the Board of Selectors. Referring to this part, the Archbishop said that at the meeting of the Board of Selectors 68 of the 72 members had attended, and there had been reasons, such as illness, for the absence of the other four. They could feel, therefore, that the whole Church of Ireland had proved her interest in their welfare, and had done her best to help them in the very serious task which lay before them.

THE VOTING

On the first vote the highest number of votes, 113 — 29 clerical and 84 lay — was obtained by the Dean of Ossory, the Very Rev. J. P. Phair. The following was the order of the other names in the Select List:—The Dean of Killaloe (the Very Rev. R. McN. Boyd).

Canon E. C. Hodges (Principal of the Church of Ireland Training College).

The Dean of Down (the Very Rev. R. C. H. G. Elliott).

The Archdeacon of Dublin (the Ven. E. G. Sullivan).

The necessary two-thirds majority was 50 clerical and 101 lay votes.

On the second vote, the Dean of Ossory received 136 votes (35 clerical and 101 lay), and the Dean of Killaloe 53 (29 clerical and 24 lay), the order of the other three candidates being as in the first vote. This vote gave the Dean of Ossory the necessary two-thirds of the lay votes. The House then decided to proceed to a third vote, which resulted in 169 votes (47 clerical and 122 lay) being cast for the Dean of Ossory, and 51 (27 clerical and 24 lay) for the Dean of Killaloe.

A fourth vote, on the question whether or not the Dean of Ossory's name should be recommended to the House of Bishops for appointment, 189 votes were cast in favour—56 clerical and 133 lay—and that being more than two-thirds of each order, the Archbishop declared the Dean to be elected, subject to the confirmation of the House of Bishops.

Mr. Gerald FitzGibbon, K.C., was the Archbishop's Assessor.

THE BISHOP-ELECT

Dean Phair is a graduate of the University of Dublin. He was ordained in 1901 in the Diocese of Derry, and subsequently was curate of St. Matthias's, Dublin, and of Monkstown; and Incumbent of St. Catherine's Dublin, and of Christ Church, Leeson Park. He became Dean of Ossory in 1923. From 1920 to 1923 he was a Canon of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin.

KILKENNY CORPORATION'S TRIBUTE

Kilkenny Corporation, on the proposition of Alderman Magennis, seconded by Alderman Tynan, to-night unanimously passed a resolution congratulating the Very Rev. Dean Phair on his election as Bishop of Ossory, Ferns and Leighlin. Alderman Magennis said that he had always found Dean Phair very helpful on public boards.

Alderman Tynan said that the Dean had been in Kilkenny for a long time, and could now be regarded as a Kilkenny man. This was a time when Christian people should show good-will and a united front against the anti-Christian influences which were at large in the world to-day. It was a time when they should express the good-will existing between Catholics and Protestants in that area.

Alderman Pattison, T.D., said that Dean Phair's appointment was popular, not only among his own religious community, but among the citizens of Kilkenny generally.

The Mayor (Alderman R. Crotty) and other members associated themselves with the vote of congratulation.

THE LABOUR PARTY

REPORT FOR ANNUAL MEETING

In the report of the Administrative Council of the Labour Party to be submitted to the annual meeting to be held in Dublin on Monday next, it is stated that the income for the year was £540 less than in the previous year, but this is accounted for by the fact that in 1938 there was a special income of £575 provided for election purposes.

The changes in the constitution of the party which were suggested at the previous annual meeting have been carried out and are in operation since last November. One of these, it is understood, is the omission of the "Workers' Republic" from the objects of the party.

Under the head of Political Developments, it is noted with satisfaction that the Government had adhered to the policy of neutrality in a European war, which was the policy recommended by the Labour group. The part taken by Labour to obtain exemption of Northern Ireland residents from Conscription is mentioned; also the steps taken concerning Irish nationals in Britain. In March last Mr. Norton had been informed by the Irish Government that the British Government had agreed to permit Irish residents in Britain not serving in the Army to return home on production of a permit from the Irish High Commissioner.

Among industrial workers, the volume of unemployment had increased in recent years from, approximately, 20,300 in December, 1937, and 1938, to 26,000 in December, 1939. From this the conclusion is drawn that industry is no longer able to absorb the number of people trained for industrial pursuits.

There were 29 per cent. fewer houses erected in 1939 than in the previous year.

THREE TUAM SHOPS BURNED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

TUAM, Tuesday.

Three fire brigades were called to fight a fire in Tuam last night, when two shops were burned and a third damaged. The total loss from the fire is estimated at about £8,000, the greatest caused by fire since the town was burned by the Black and Tans in 1919.

The fire was first noticed by a shop assistant, Mr. O'Hora, who saw circles of smoke through the plate-glass window and a slight glare of light in the drapery shop of Mr. H. McKay in Shop street. He knocked up the residents in the second storey, and one of the girl apprentices who was ill in bed was removed to safety. By the time the residents had got clear the fire was well advanced and the whole ground floor was enveloped in flames, which soon spread to the other side of the street, where Mr. Connolly's licensed grocery business also caught fire. When the local fire brigade arrived they succeeded in putting out the fire in the licensed premises, but the fire engine was not sufficient to send the water to the top part of the drapery shop, but the brigade succeeded in keeping the fire from the Bank of Ireland building.

Soon another licensed grocery premises, Fitzpatrick's, on the other side of the drapery shop, went on fire and the greater part of it was gutted before the Galway fire brigade and the military brigade from Athlone arrived, and finally got the fire under control.

ARRESTED AT DUBLIN THEATRE

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

(BEFORE MR. CONROY.)

Norman Rogers (33), native of Manchester, was remanded in custody for one week on charges of having during the last six months, while employed as factory manager at Magee's box factory, Parker Hill, Rathmines, fraudulently converted to his own use £88 and with having £32 10s. 10½d. illegally in his possession.

It was stated that Rogers came to this country last September, and had disappeared from his residence in Rathmines during the last month.

Detective-Officer Thomas Forde said that on Monday night he saw Rogers leaving the Theatre Royal, and he told him that he resembled a man wanted on embezzlement charges. Rogers replied: "You are making a mistake," and said his name was Arthur James and that he was staying at the Spa Hotel, Lucan. He was brought to the College street Station, where the sum of £32 10s. 10½d., a cheque book and a number of keys were found in his possession.

Detective-Sergeant Mooney said that, when charged and cautioned at the Bridewell that morning, Rogers replied: "I plead guilty."

CUSTOMS FINE REDUCED

(BEFORE MR. LENNON.)

Mrs. Margaret O'Sullivan, 89 Lower George's street, Dun Laoghaire, was summoned for having, on 4th June, 1939, imported articles of wearing apparel on which the duty had not been paid or secured. She pleaded guilty, and the District Justice imposed a fine of £418 9d. 3d., being treble the value of the goods, including duty.

The Revenue Commissioners intimated that they were prepared to accept a mitigated penalty of £50, which was immediately paid in Court.

MILK VENDOR FINED

Laurence Keernan, "Glenview," Artane, was fined £1 for selling milk deficient in milk solids.

Mr. H. Bonass, Assistant Law Agent, prosecuted for the Dublin Corporation, and Mr. T. Egan, Corporation Inspector, proved the case.

PLAYS AT FATHER MATHEW HALL

Two plays—"The Six Queens of Henry" and "Unnatural Scene"—were presented last night in the Father Mathew Hall, Church street, Dublin.

"The Six Queens of Henry" was a historical fantasy in one act, written by Marjorie Price. The cast consisted of Mary McElhinny, as Katherine Howard; Una Brennan, as Ann of Cleves; Joan Wall, as Jane Seymour; Maureen O'Curry, as Catherine of Aragon; F. FitzSimons, as Anne Boleyn; Betty Cullen, as Katherine Parr; John Donovan, as King Henry VIII., and James Kelly, as Wilkins, a butler.

"Unnatural Scene," is also a one-act play, and was written by Kathleen Davey. Those taking part in it were: Miss Barbara Burke, Miss Madeline Reeves, Miss C. Mulligan, Mrs. P. Pierce, Miss E. Cahill, Miss Fionnuala Burke and Miss Nancy Carroll.

To-night, the Rathgar Players will present "Doctor, There's Danger."

A COMPARISON

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—A comparison is generally considered to be odious. The one concerning the cost of living which I submit to you will, I fear, be so to certain people; but in view of the load of the cost of living prevailing at present in Dublin, it may be advantageous to present it.

Until recently I lived in a house of certain dimensions in Seapoint, with a moderately-sized garden attached. It was rated for P.L.V. at £65 per annum, on which I paid £53 odd in rates. It has been my good fortune to stay on many occasions with friends in Edinburgh, whose house is in the most fashionable quarter of that beautiful city, and is practically a counterpart of the house I occupied in Seapoint. The Edinburgh house is valued (1939) at £110 on P.L.V., but the rates there are only £47 9s. per annum.

For my telephone I paid £1 5s. per quarter; my Edinburgh friends paid £1 4s. 6d. for the same period, and are allowed 100 free calls per quarter. There are many other comparisons one could mention, all to our disadvantage, such as the price of petrol, 1s. 10d. per gallon in Edinburgh; postage, 1½d., against our 2d.; cars, on an average, £100 cheaper, etc., etc.; but, perhaps, the above will be sufficient to open the eyes of the public generally to the high incidence of our cost of living and means taken to lower this burthen.—Yours, etc.,

(Sgd.) R. B. SCHIENER,
Surgeon-Captain R.N.

THE OIREACHTAS

Efforts are being made to make this year's Oireachtas, which is to be held from October 26th to 30th in the Mansion House, Dublin, even more successful than that held last year. The programme, which has been issued already, shows that over £370 is offered in prizes in the literary section. There are three main divisions in this programme—(a) drama, including drama for children; (b) composition and arrangement of music, and (c) literature. Prizes are offered for original research work in the lives of Michael Davitt, Eoghan O'Comhraldhe, Wolfe Tone and Seamus O Conghalaigh.

There are also four competitions for poets. The majority of the platform competitions are confined to the Gaeltacht. The patrons of the Oireachtas are the President (Dr. Hyde), Cardinal MacRory, Mr. de Valera and Cu Uladh.

Call Him Fancied for The Visitors' Steeplechase

Trains: Westland Row, 7.10 a.m.

THE annual meeting on the Hazelwood course, adjoining Lough Gill, is one of the few survivors of the pleasant little Western meetings which years ago were such a strong feature of Irish racing. Owing to many stables being set up in the district in recent years the meeting, which at one time looked like sharing the fate of the other small fixtures, has been most successful, and this afternoon visitors are promised very interesting racing.

The Visitors' Plate of 100 sovs., presented by the Government of Ireland, is the chief event, and will attract a field of twelve runners, including some recent winners. It is an open race, and may be won by Call Him. The County Sligo Hunt Challenge Cup has been won on several occasions by Patricia II., but she may on this occasion find one too good for her in Macidas, who has good point-to-point form. Selections:—

Hazlewood Plate—Trance.
Lough Gill Hunter' Hurdle—Sarawaki.
Visitors' Plate—Call Him.
County Sligo Hunt Cup—Macidas.
Atlantic Plate—Cooleragh.
T.N. Hunt Plate—Glass Court.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Closing of Entries

Entries close to-day with Mr. F. Harold Clarke, 9 Hume street, Dublin, for six races at the Down Royal May meeting, six races at Longford meeting, and second entries for the Shandon Plate at the Mallow June meeting.

Trainer's Three Winners

V. Smyth had the rare experience of training three winners and two seconds at Nottingham races yesterday. He won the last race at the meeting on Monday. Evidently his training methods are responsible for his success. "However bad the weather," he said, "I bring them out and keep them on the walk and trot them in the stable yard."

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE

CROSS-CHANNEL ISSUES DULL

LOCAL FIRMNESS MAINTAINED

Following the unexpected overnight developments in the European situation, markets on the Dublin Stock Exchange opened yesterday in hesitant fashion. Trading was negligible, as investors were inclined to adopt a cautious attitude. There was no undue selling pressure, but the prices of cross-Channel securities inclined to sag from lack of support. Local issues, although quiet, were remarkably steady.

Home Government Funds continued busy and prices were well maintained, apart from 4½ per cent. Land Bonds, which eased to 111¼, but the New Bonds advanced 10s. to 103½.

War Loan weakened 16s. 3d. to 98⅜, but Banks attracted a good deal of attention at unchanged levels.

Guinness Ord. opened easier, but in the late dealings good support was in evidence and they recovered to close pence better at 78s.

Great Southern Rails inclined to give way and the Ord. drooped to 8½, while the Deb. shaded off to 52¼.

Dublin Tram Pref. hardened to 19s. 10½d., but Alliance Gas Ord. repeated 22s. 9d. Cement Pref. moved up to 23s., but Independent "B" Ord. shaded off to 39s. Otherwise a steady tone prevailed in Irish Industrials.

Tobaccos were a weak spot, and B.A.T. Ord. were called 2s. down at 105s. 9d. and Imperials 2s. 3d. lower at 115s. 9d. Coats Ord. repeated 38s., but Courtaulds eased to 39s.

Dunlop Rubbers and Imperial Chemical Ord. showed pence losses, and Lever Bros. Ord. were dealt in at 33s. 6d. Vickers Ord. held steady, but Shell Transport Ord. advised easier at around 76s.

BRITISH OUTGOINGS DOUBLE INCOME

In the first week of the 1940-41 financial year British expenditure more than touched revenue. Outgoings amounted to £48,552,000, including £31,000,000 for defence, while income totalled £20,812,000. A year ago the figures were—expenditure £27,411,000 and revenue £17,560,000. Income tax last week contributed £9,649,000 (against £6,528,000) and motor vehicle duties £2,184,000 (£1,446,000). Advance payments for the new 3 per cent. War Loan brought in £38,250,000. The floating debt was decreased by £11,900,000 to £1,477,300,000, compared with £932,165,000 a year ago.

PRICES LOWERED AND WIDENED

DANISH AND NORWEGIAN BONDS UNQUOTED

THE developments in Scandinavia brought business on the London Stock Markets to an abrupt standstill yesterday, and, acting with extreme caution pending further news, dealers took precautionary measures during the opening stages, widening and marking down prices throughout the list. In the case of British Rails and Gilt-edged securities, margins between buying and selling rates were much wider than usual, but operators kept calm, and there was little disposition to reduce commitments. After the initial period of uncertainty markets took on a more normal appearance, and around midday modest support at the lower levels had a steadying effect on prices. There was little desire to effect anything but small transactions, however, and most groups showed substantial losses on balance.

No prices were quoted for Danish and Norwegian Bonds, while Swedish Match "B" were a nominal market at 10s.

GILT-EDGED WEAK

Following the opening decline, Gilt-edged securities picked up to levels only slightly lower than those ruling at the previous close, but shortly before the end fresh weakness developed, and quotations went to their lowest of the day. War Loan 3½ per cent., Old Consols and Consols 4 per cent. all finished off, while Conversion 3½ per cent. showed a fall of 11/16 at 98. India stocks also closed ¼ lower, and similar setbacks were fairly common among Dominion and Colonial issues.

In the Foreign section, Brasiliana gave way by amounts ranging up to 1½, and in the European group point losses occurred in Belgian Fours at 59½ and Czech 8 per cent. at 43. Far Easterns shared in the general decline, but in the absence of selling pressure final losses were not serious.

British Rails were among the weaker groups at the start, and the markets attempt to rally in later trading was only partially successful. Nevertheless, quotations were distinctly steadier in the last hour or so, and Great Western Ord. was eventually only a point off at 48. L M S closed at 23 and Southern Defd. at 21. The prior charges showed losses of ¼ to a point. Other Rail groups displayed the common trend.

INDUSTRIALS, OILS AND RUBBERS

PRICES MARKED DOWN AS A PRECAUTION

As a result of the European developments, business in the Industrial Market was reduced to a minimum, with a general precautionary marking down of prices. No selling pressure was encountered, though a certain amount of profit-taking occurred among the recently favoured equities. Quick-turn operators showed a disposition to lighten commitments where possible. All the Swedish issues became a nominal market. Swedish Match were called 10s., S.K.F. 8½, Elektrolux 2½, and Separators 2½.

Iron, Coal and Steel shares showed a sagging tendency. John Brown gave way 9d. to 31s. 9d. Bolsovers shed a similar amount at 51s., while several others receded 6d. apiece. An exception was provided by Indian Iron, which were marked up ¼ to 2½. Electricals generally lost ground, Callenders Cable weakening to 64s., and English Electric to 37s. Aircrafts ruled quietly steady, but Motors were dull, Leylands receding ⅛ to 3⅛.

Breweries were easier. Bass gave way to 124s. 9d., Guinness to 78s. 3d., Charringtons to 54s. 3d., Courage to 54s. 9d., Watney Defd. to 48s., and Distillers to 67s. 9d. The Tobacco leaders reflected the general trend. "Bats" declined to 5⅛, Carreras "A" to 53, "Imps" to 5⅛, Gallahers to 5½, and United Souths to 5¼. Rayons and Textiles developed a reactionary tendency, Courtaulds losing 9d., and Lancashire Cotton 10½d., while J. and P. Coats shed 6d.

In other directions, Dunlops were subject to scattered realisations, and lost 1s. 6d. at 35s. 3d.; British Aluminium fell back 1s. 3d. to 52s. 6d., Associated Cement ⅛, London Brick 9d., Turner and Newall 9d., Woolworths 1s. to 63s. 6d., and United Molasses 7½d. to 26s. 1½d.

Taking all things into consideration, the Oil Share Market behaved in fairly satisfactory fashion yesterday. As could only be expected, the international news led to a general marking down of prices at the start as a precautionary measure. A few issues, indeed, were above the worst at the close, and the market displayed a somewhat steadier tendency in the final dealings. In the circumstances, business remained on a small scale. Royal Dutch closed only ¼ down on balance at 30½, and "Shells" closed only ⅛ lower on the day.

In view of the preponderance of political developments, it was not surprising that conditions in the Rubber Share Market should fail to improve. As on the preceding day, support for the market was modest, and, with a little offering in progress, prices were again depressed slightly in some instances. Among the leading issues, United Sua Betongs proved a dull feature.

ALL-ROUND DECLINE IN MINES

TURNOVER MUCH BELOW NORMAL

All sections of the Mining market were overshadowed yesterday by news of the German invasion of Denmark and Norway. There was not usually much attempt to sell, but, with sentiment deteriorating so sharply, quotations were marked down all round.

Few issues in the Kaffir market managed to avoid the downward trend. On the other hand, movements were rarely at all severe. Cape interest evaporated completely, and altogether the turnover was much below what has been seen recently. Western Holdings at 16s. closed with a loss of 1s. 6d., but losses in the other developing mines were relatively less severe. Few of the producers maintained their overnight levels.

In West Africans Bibiani fell 9d. to 25s., Ashanti ⅛ to 3⅛, and G. C. Selection 4½d. to 14s. 6d. In the Indian list Champion Reef were marked back 9d. to 35s. 6d., while Mysore, at 24s. 5d., and Nundydroog, at 25s. 6d., were also easier.

Diamond issues remained dull. Although Base Metal shares were often losing ground fractionally, it was again largely a question of precautionary marking down. The Tin list made a rather poor showing. Closing prices:
